INFO AND TIPS

If your measurements are not quite the same as mine, you could do an extra round or add a couple more chains to the edging to get the above measurements.

The rib edging of 5 stitches measures about 1 inch, so your finished square should measure about 1 inch less than the above measurement before joining together.

Photoguide on page 6.

Joining the squares
Slst together across the top and down the back, place hook into the back loop of the square nearest you and the back loop of the other square (it is the inside loop)

Edging and ties
You may need to add or take away, to the chains for this step to get the right measurements of 17 / 19 / 21 cm or 6.75" / 7.50" / 8.25" squares.

Back bonnet edging
Using a 3mm hook

Start at the outer side and work across one square, then the opposite square.

Row 1 ch6, sc in the second chain from hook, sc in the next 4, join to the next stitch at the edge of the bonnet with a slst, then work one more slst into the next stitch. (2 slsts in total for joining) (5) Turn

Row 2 ch1, sc all in blo. (5) Turn

Row 3 (in blo) ch1, sc all back to the edge of the bonnet, join to the next stitch of the edge of the bonnet using a slst, then work one more slst into the next stitch. (2 slsts in total for joining) (5) Turn

Repeat rows 2 and 3 until you reach the other side.

Then do the front edging below:

Row 1 chain 71 / 76 / 81, sc in the second chain from hook, sc in the next 69 / 74 / 79, join to the next stitch at the edge of the bonnet with a slst, then work one more slst into the next stitch. (2 slsts in total for joining) Turn

Row 2 ch1, sc 5 in blo. (5) Turn

Row 3 (in blo) ch1, sc all back to the edge of the bonnet, join to the next stitch of the edge of the bonnet using a slst, then work one more slst into the next stitch. (2 slsts in total for joining) (5) Turn

Repeat rows 2 and 3 until you reach the other side, then repeat row 1 for the last row to make the second tie.

Fasten off and sew in all the ends.

Enjoy!
