PATTERN INFORMATION

This versatile pattern can be a bandana or scarf, and you can make it wider if you want! It's worked from the bottom edge, and grows with increases on both the right and wrong sides.

To add to the ethereal look of the Kid Silk, simple yarn overs are worked, and beads are knit into the piece while you work it.

It's a pattern for confident beginners who want to learn new techniques such as lace, increases and a stretchy bind off.

INFO AND TIPS

To add the beads, you need to use the needle threader. Insert the needle threader through the bead as if it were a needle that you want to thread. When you get to the stitch that has to be worked with a bead, remove it from the needle carefully and, as if it were thread, pass it through the threader. Slip the bead out of it and the stitch should be “inside” the bead. Put the stitch back on the left-hand needle and knit it. (You’ll find a visual tutorial on my Instagram account here)

Knit 2 stitches, insert left needle into front of stitches you just knit, knit those two together. You'll have one stitch on your right-hand needle. K1 and Rep * to *.
Or you can use your preferred stretchy bind off.

Block to measurements (This is very important when working increases and yarnovers!).

For reference, this is how the repeats should look:
