PATTERN INFORMATION

The Beachcomber Sweater is a seamless raglan worked from the top down, in the round, with neck shaping worked after the collar. The sleeve stitches are held while the body is worked. Sleeve stitches are then picked up and worked in the round. The sweater is worked in a broken rib pattern and has a lightweight feel to it, perfect for fall weather!

Techniques used include: knitting in the round, knitting, purling, increasing stitches, holding stitches, tubular bind off, German Short Rows, wet blocking.
